Thank you for your interest in fundraising for THE KIDS!

At The Kids, our vision is simple – happy, healthy kids. This vision is possible because of the generous support and fundraising efforts of many people like you.

And we want to say THANK YOU

You are an important part of the The Kids community, and your fundraising provides vital resources for, and awareness of, our life-changing research for children and families. Every dollar you raise helps.

With your support – and the support of our whole community of individuals, families, community groups, and corporates – we can keep asking and answering the important questions to save and improve the lives of kids.

Good luck on your fundraising adventures, we're behind you all the way!

With thanks,

All of us at The Kids Research Institute Australia

Make a plan

This is your who, what, when, where, why ... and how!

The best fundraisers not only have a great idea but also a great plan – and people behind them to help make it happen. As you get started, ask yourself these questions.

WHY is fundraising for research at The Kids important to you?

How will you share your story to inspire people to support you?

WHEN will your fundraiser happen?

Consider school, public holidays, and big events in your local community at that time.

WHO are your potential supporters?

Could their friends and networks help too?

How will you update them about your fundraising efforts and progress?

WHERE will it take place?

Do you need to book a venue or seek permissions or permits? Will you need contingency plans? Are there health and safety implications?

WHAT activity do you want to do to raise funds?

If you need ideas, check out the next page for inspiration.

Please note we do not endorse telemarketing, door to door, unsafe, or illegal activities.

HOW are you going to make it happen?

Could people you know help you? What is your budget? Check with your local council about any licenses or approvals that you need for things like selling food. If you are hosting a raffle or selling alcohol, check to see if you need a permit from the Office of Racing, Gaming and Liquor. Visit www.rgl.wa.gov.au for information.

FUNDRAISER FOCUS

Isabelle is passionate about raising funds to help other kids through The Kids' health research. And what better way than with one of her favourite hobbies: making loom band bracelets. With help from her super proud parents and her best friend, she became an official The Kids fundraiser, organised a stall at her local markets, made her own signs, shared her online fundraising page with friends and family, and raised an amazing $885!

MEET

"It's so good to be helping other people and having so much fun as well," Isabelle says. "Everyone I meet at the markets is so kind. They say things like 'keep going' and 'I'm so proud of you', and that feels nice."

Maximise your potential

With just a little creative thinking, your fundraising can be very successful. Consider some of these ideas to help boost your fundraiser and make it the best it can be.

- Gather a team. A support crew can help with ideas, share tasks, work faster, and be more effective. Plus each person's network can dramatically increase your fundraiser's reach.
- Set an ambitious yet achievable fundraising goal.
- Make it easy for people to give. Request a donation tin from us or create your online fundraising webpage at thekids.org.au/fundraise
- Share updates, blog posts, and photos online to engage your potential supporters.
- For events, consider adding a raffle, auction, or selling food or drinks.
- Find a company who can sponsor you. See if your workplace or local businesses will donate cash, prizes, or something else you need.
- Advertise your event with the downloadable The Kids event poster.
- Use the The Kids logo in your publicity. As a trusted brand, our logo can help get people behind your fundraiser.

NOTE: All use of The Kids Research Institute Australia logo must be approved by us in advance.

- Be creative on publicising your fundraising far and wide.
- Share with your supporters the difference they will make for kids by supporting you. Explore the latest news on the The Kids Research Institute Australia Facebook page or contact us for information about our research that you can share.

MEET

TINO

"We'll be back every year on our anniversary," he declares with a wink.

Tino launched his new business 'Tino's Pizza' with a self-proclaimed "world's biggest pizza party". It featured afternoon festivities and fundraising for Embrace @ The Kids, our research centre devoted to the mental health of children and young people. With four children, Tino was keen to support a cause close to his family's heart: mental health support for young people and ensuring online communities are a safe space – areas of focus for Embrace @ The Kids researchers. The afternoon raised $714 and according to Tino, that's just the beginning.
